CLASSIC TOURING CAR RACING CLUB REVVED UP TO CLOSE OUT SEASON

WORDS: CHRIS ASHBY

Mallory Park provides the backdrop for the final chapter of the Classic Touring Car Racing Club this Sunday and it's set to be an unmissable event as champions will be crowned across all seven championships.

Boasting big grids across the board and showcasing sensational edge-of-the-seat, wheel-to-wheel entertainment, it has been another vintage year for the tin top category - and we're not done yet.

With events at Silverstone, Donington Park, Castle Combe, Brands Hatch, Cadwell Park and Snetterton having produced a captivating narrative throughout the year, the stage is set here at the Leicestershire venue for a blockbuster finale.

Harking back to a bygone era of saloon car racing, the Pre '66 Touring Cars have possessed some of the biggest entry lists this year and today is no different.

The variety of classes has promoted some close racing up to now and with the likes of James Ibbotson, Nathan Williams and Alan Greenhalgh being a number of names in contention, more of the same is expected.

Mark Lucock, Anton Martin and Mike Luck are the main protagonists to look out for amongst the Pre '83 Touring Cars contingent whilst Ian Bower and Andrew Sheraton are just two of the drivers aiming for glory in the Pre '93 Touring Cars.

In the Pre '03 Touring Cars, Garry Prebble has been perfection personified for a majority of the year and that has arguably been the same for Martin Reynolds in the Blue Oval Saloon Series.

Classic Thunder is where the monstrous machines of the CTCRC can be found and its fair to say they've not disappointed. The likes of Jason Hughes, Jason West, Andrew Wilson, Richard Wood and Andy Robinson will all be worth keeping an eye out for.

Rounding out the weekend's track action will also be two races from the Jaguar Enthusiasts' Club. After joining the CTCRC ranks at the start of the year, the single-manufacturer category has proven to be a smash-hit.

A flat-out day of Classic Touring Car Racing Club action awaits Mallory Park today and not a second of it is to be missed.
